Course Description

CS 1200 focuses on the development of skills that support student success in the Khoury College of Computer Sciences and Northeastern University. Topics include communication, study skills, time management, student services and resources. The course serves as a shared experience for students to make connections with other students, faculty, and staff within Khoury and the greater Northeastern community. This course is intended for first-year students.

Learning Outcomes

As a result of completing this course, you will:

- Develop a sense of self-awareness in order to become engaged members of the growing and diverse Khoury community.
- Cultivate the skills necessary to successfully transition to life and academics at Khoury College
- Be able to identify the people, resources, programs, and tools that will help you thrive at Northeastern University
- Be able to articulate your personal, academic, and professional goals

Fellow Role

The Fellow is an upper-level Khoury student that has been on at least one co-op. The role of the Fellow is to support the instructor as a teaching assistant and serve as a mentor to first year students as they transition to Northeastern University. The Fellow is a knowledgeable resource for students to connect with if questions or issues arise. Fellows are active in leading class discussion and answering questions.

Attendance & Participation

As you begin your college career at Northeastern, attending courses regularly and on time will be vital to becoming a successful student. You have made a significant commitment to yourself, your college, your classmates, and your professors to be involved in the classes for which you have enrolled. Students who are present and participate are best able to learn; those who regularly attend class, come prepared on time, and participate are also in the best position to demonstrate what they have learned. As such, the policies for CS1200 are as follows:

Attendance: You may miss two class sessions before it affects your final grade. Each subsequent absence will lower your final grade by one whole letter (e.g., a B- would become a C-). There will be no distinction made between excused and unexcused absences, but please contact your instructor ahead of time (if possible) to let them know you will be absent.

Attendance will be taken at the beginning of every class and repeated late arrivals will impact your overall participation grade.

Understandably, unforeseen circumstances such as illness or family emergencies may arise which could require you to miss more than two class sessions. In a situation such as this, you should contact your instructor as soon as possible.

Participation: You will get out of this course what you will put into it; thus participation is an important part of the class' success as well as your individual success. Attendance is one component of participation, as are contributions to class discussions and Blackboard Journal posts.

- Discussions: Realizing that not everyone is comfortable with speaking in front of the class, discussion participation is defined as actively listening during class sessions, participating in small group or partnered discussions, and being engaged (i.e. not on your laptop, cell phone, talking) when appropriate.
- Reflections: Reflections will be assigned at the end of each class and are due by the start of the next class. You are expected to fully answer the assigned question(s) in a thoughtful manner (i.e. showing evidence of critical thinking and self-awareness). Examples are provided on the class Blackboard site.

Northeastern University Academic Integrity Policy

As members of the academic community, students must become familiar with their rights and responsibilities. In each course, they are responsible for knowing the requirements and restrictions regarding research and writing, examinations of whatever kind, collaborative work, the use of study aids, the appropriateness of assistance, and other issues. Students are responsible for learning the conventions of documentation and acknowledgment of sources in their fields. Northeastern University expects students to complete all examinations, tests, papers, creative projects, and assignments of any kind according to the highest ethical standards, as set forth either explicitly or implicitly in this Code or by the direction of instructors. For more information, please see http://www.northeastern.edu/osccr/academic-integrity-policy/

Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

If you have a disability-related need for reasonable academic accommodations in this course and have not yet met with a Disability Specialist, please visit www.northeastern.edu/drc and follow the outlined procedure to request services.

If the Disability Resource Center has formally approved you for an academic accommodation in this class, please present the instructor with your "Professor Notification Letter" during the first week of the semester so your specific needs can be addressed as early as possible. Accommodations for assignments cannot be made without official notification from the DRC prior to the assignment's due date.

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972

Title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 protects individuals from sex or gender-based discrimination, including discrimination based on gender-identity, in educational programs and activities that receive federal financial assistance.

Northeastern's Title IX Policy prohibits Prohibited Offenses, which are defined as sexual harassment, sexual assault, relationship or domestic violence, and stalking. The Title IX Policy applies to the entire community, including male, female, transgender students, faculty and staff.

If you or someone you know has been a survivor of a Prohibited Offense, confidential support and guidance can be found through University Health and Counseling Services staff (http://www.northeastern.edu/uhcs/) and the Center for Spiritual Dialogue and Service clergy members (http://www.northeastern.edu/spirituallife/). By law, those employees are not required to report allegations of sex or gender-based discrimination to the University. Alleged violations can be reported non-confidentially to the Title IX Coordinator within The Office for Gender Equity and Compliance at: titleix@northeastern.edu and/or through NUPD (Emergency 617.373.3333; Non-Emergency 617.373.2121). Reporting Prohibited Offenses to NUPD does NOT commit the victim/affected party to future legal action.

Faculty members are considered "responsible employees" at Northeastern University, meaning they are required to report all allegations of sex or gender-based discrimination to the Title IX Coordinator.
In case of an emergency, please call 911.

Please visit www.northeastern.edu/titleix for a complete list of reporting options and resources both on- and off-campus.

Basic Needs

If you are facing challenges securing food or housing and believe this may affect your performance in the course, please reach out to WeCare (wecare@northeastern.edu) for support. Furthermore, please notify your instructor(s) if you are comfortable in doing so. This will enable them to provide any resources that they may possess.

SAIL: Self-Authored Integrated Learning

SAIL is a framework that helps you conceptualize your learning and draw connections between all the amazing learning opportunities you'll encounter at Northeastern. It embodies Northeastern's approach to experiential learning in that the underlying principle is learning happens everywhere -- not just in courses, on co-op or during study abroad, but in everyday experiences. SAIL provides a common framework and vocabulary for talking about learning along five broad dimensions of personal and professional growth and leadership. SAIL is grounded in decades of research about how people learn, and it's designed to help you understand concepts and skills on a deeper level so you can easily apply them to entirely new situations and contexts. To learn more about SAIL, please visit: sail.northeastern.edu/

Grading

All assignments must be submitted via Blackboard by the date and time posted.

Assignments are considered late after the date/time posted on Blackboard. For every day an assignment is late, 10% of the grade will be deducted. For example, 1 min - 24 hours late = 10% off. 24 hours – 48 hours = 20% off, etc.

Late assignments will only be accepted until one week after the original due date.

It is the responsibility of the student to check Blackboard regularly to ensure attendance and other points are recorded correctly. If you see an error, please contact your instructor.

Assignments

Introduction Survey – 5 points
Introduce yourself to your instructor and/or advisor by sharing how you came to be a Khoury College student at Northeastern and your expectations moving forward.

Participation (in class) – 10 points
Participation means actively listening during class sessions, participating in small group or partnered discussions, and being engaged (i.e. not on your laptop, cell phone, talking) when appropriate.

Participation (weekly reflections) – 20 points
You will have a reflection due each week by the start of the next class. Each Blackboard Journal reflection is worth 2 points, totaling 18 points for 9 journal entries. The remaining reflection participation points will be determined based on thoroughness of responses and incorporation of feedback.

Academic Advising Appointment – 30 points
Meet with your academic advisor to create an academic plan and begin discussing your academic and professional goals. To prepare, review mission, expectations, and responsibilities on Khoury College Academic Advising and make an appointment through myNortheastern Appointment Calendar.

Fellow One-on-One – 15 points
Meet with your Fellow to discuss how your semester is going, any questions and/or concerns, and get to know one another. Your Fellow will indicate how to schedule an appointment during the first class.

Time Management Project – 20 points
Develop time management skills and create tools to help with organization. For this assignment you will be submitting your Time Map, a homework organizer listing all the assignments from your syllabi, and a view of a planner you have created.

Resume Workshop – 20 points
Submit a copy of the resume peer workshop handout you completed in class. Additionally, using your peer feedback and guidelines from lessons, submit a polished version of your resume for a real internship posting. It should incorporate in-class feedback, proper formatting, and good writing practices.

Office Hours Visit & Reflection – 15 points
Attend the office hours for one of your professors this semester, or a professor that you are interested in learning more about. This may be for questions about class, future coursework or career opportunities, or to learn more about their research. Afterwards, you will complete a reflection via Blackboard.

Schedule Builder – 15 points
Create a variety of potential schedules for the upcoming semester by reviewing your degree audit and plan of study.

Major Mentor Attendance and Reflection – 10 points
Major Mentor, Khoury's major exploration fair, will be held on October 7th from 5:30pm-8:30pm in the Curry Student Center Quad. Attendance is required and you will submit a reflection via Blackboard Journals. The reflection prompt will be assigned the week of October 7th and due the following week.

Northeastern Network– 15 points
Create a visual representation of the network you've built throughout the semester at Northeastern. This assignment will be completed in-class, during the last session. However, you should be keeping track of individuals, groups, and offices you are adding to your network via the prompt in each week's Blackboard journal. Your Network must include at least 3 Campus Connections events.

Campus Connection events are on-campus events or opportunities you attend throughout the semester. To find events for this assignment, we will utilize the Parade app. Any event that has the tag 'cs1200' will count for Campus Connections. For your three events, you must include:

- Up to Us: an interactive presentation related to sexual violence, consent, and bystander intervention tailored to students in Khoury College presented by the Office of Prevention and Education at Northeastern
- A Global and/or Social experience: attend an event that expands your knowledge and experience within the SAIL dimensions of 'Global Mindset' or 'Social Consciousness & Commitment'
- An experience of your choice: Any other event or opportunity on campus that has a 'cs1200' tag in Parade or any other event that has been previously approved by your instructor

Final Reflection – 25 points
Throughout the semester, you have been reflecting on your transition to Northeastern. Each week, you have reflected on your personal experiences with various topics covered in our class. For your culminating assignment, you are to review your weekly reflections and write a 2 page, double-spaced Final Reflection that explores your experience reflecting this semester. Time will be given in the final class to begin working on this assignment.
